TRANSPORTATION

We use a support vehicle that transports your luggage and keeps it secure all day so it is not in the hands of third parties. That bus also allows us to bypass those parts of the Camino that require you to walk for hours to get into or outside of a major city or walk along the highway for long period of time.

The support bus meets us at least 2 times a day, geography permitting. It carries snacks and water and also allows you to take off and put on clothes as the day warms or cools. If we do not sleep in a town on the path, the bus takes us to the starting point of the day's walk and picks us up again at the end point. This allows for maximum flexibility on where we stay, not limiting us to accommodations that are actually on the Path. We normally spend about 15 to 20 minutes each way on the bus. It also allows us to spend at least 2 nights in a row in a few places, which is a huge relief from packing and unpacking every day to move to the next stop!

GASTRONOMY AND ENOLOGY

The trip, which combines the best of the gastronomy, wine, most meals, wine, beer and soft drinks, is all inclusive. Our participants tell us that we do not adequately convey the amazing quality of the food on our website. I agree, but it is hard to describe it until you have experienced it. Especially when you walk in the spring or fall, as you are planning, the fresh vegetables that you pass on your route are usually the ones that you will be eating that evening and the food is really extraordinary. Similarly, we are able to taste wines from small wineries producing fabulous wines that no one has heard of outside Spain.

¡BUEN CAMINO!
